Fall 2016 Class Schedule
September 6 - December 16

Register for Fall May 9 to September 6
Dear friends and colleagues:

I am delighted to welcome you to the Linfield College Online and Continuing Education Program. Throughout the Pacific Northwest, I have met alumni who completed the program in which you are enrolled. They have told me that it is an excellent program, combining high academic quality, personal attention, and intellectual exchange. Thus, I am proud to be associated with this program.

Many years ago, I taught adult learners in an intensive weekend program. From that experience, and also from my conversations with your Linfield professors, I know that you are not passive receptacles, waiting for the instructor to impart virtue and wisdom. Instead, you are learning actively and together, testing life’s experiences against classroom theory, and our professors tell me that you are not the only ones who are learning new things in these classes. Indeed, the best college education occurs when student and professor are learning together, side by side. This takes place online as well as in the classroom at Linfield.

The Linfield Online and Continuing Education Program has evolved over its many years of existence. While we now employ the Internet for most of the learning and teaching, certain fundamental principles will always remain a part of Linfield education: commitment to the personal and intellectual development of our students, engagement between professors and students, and the study of both theory and practice. In other words, we strive to achieve the goals of Linfield College’s mission, where we connect learning, life and community.

Have a great term!

Sincerely yours,

Thomas L. Hellie
President

Field-Based Courses for Summer 2017

ANTH 326 Archaeological Field Methods
Dr. Cameron Smith will lead this four-week, five credit class and field project investigates the archaeology of two distinctive areas occupied by native people long before the arrival of Euroamericans in the late 1700s. For the first two weeks we will survey and sample archaeological sites spanning 2,400 years of native life on the Ridgefield National Wildlife Refuge, in the ‘Wet West’ of Oregon. For the second two weeks we will survey desert terrains of the Hart Mountain refuge in Oregon’s ‘Arid East’, where ancestors of today’s Paiute people have lived for over 10,000 years. Students will be exposed to the archaeology, then, of some of the world’s most sedentary foragers (Lower Columbia) and some of the world’s most mobile foragers (Northern Great Basin). $100 fee. Students responsible for all expenses. 5 credits.

ENVS 302 Shoreline Ecology
