OUTLOOK PROMISING AS FALL SPORTS GET UNDERWAY

A return to the postseason is the unabashed goal of the Linfield Wildcats in 2007. Missing the playoffs for the first time since 2001 did not sit well with Joe Smith, whose first season as coach of the Wildcats netted the same number of losses (three) as the previous four seasons combined.

Taking their licks during an 0-2 start that included setbacks to Division II Western Oregon and nationally ranked Hardin-Simmons, the Wildcats steadied themselves to win five of the final six contests. But a 6-3 record and runner-up finish in the Northwest Conference was not good enough to earn a spot in the NCAA Division III playoffs.

Fast-forward to 2007, where 14 proven starters are among 58 returning lettermen eager to vault Linfield back to national-championship contention.

A 52nd consecutive winning season is considered an absolute prerequisite, a seventh conference title in eight years is expected, and anything less than a serious run at the national title will be considered a disappointment.

Surveying his personnel, Smith feels all three goals are within reach.

Trevor Scharer, a second team all-NWC pick in 2006, returns for his senior season at quarterback after passing for a conference-best 2,060 yards and 20 touchdowns. Waiting in the wings is a proven tandem on the outside. Travis Masters (17 catches, 1 TD), perhaps the fastest receiver, is sure to make an impact as should two-year letterman Tyson Banker (21 catches, 2 TDs).

Seniors Drew Ragan (362 yards, 1 TD) and Pete Cruickshank (182 yards, 2 TDs) are expected to battle junior Jon Montalvo (247 yards, 2 TDs) for the majority of playing time at running back.

Four NWC all-stars were among five graduated seniors on the offensive line, leaving center John Kemper as the lone returning starter. But the cupboard is far from bare. Veterans Kyle Ontinero and Scott Millenbock lend important depth at center, guards Jason Bolin and Grant Jones are well-schooled with the Wildcats’ playbook and stand ready to take their turn. At tackle, junior Jared Hinkle is poised for an all-conference season.

Two-year letterman Danny Kleiber returns as another candidate to start.

Smith gets excited when talking about the tight end position, where senior Brett Smedley is developing into an all-star candidate.

The defense faces a major overhaul due to graduation at linebacker and tackle. Senior Nate Arnold returns as the only letterman at tackle. Sophomores Paul Nishizaki and Ian Estrada are vying for the other starting spot.

PREGAME GATHERINGS PLANNED AT MENLO, SOUTHERN OREGON

COMPETITION KEEN AT 24TH WILDCAT OPEN

A full field of participants competed at the 24th annual Wildcat Open golf tournament Friday, Aug. 3, at McMinnville’s Michelbook Country Club. Friends, alumni and Linfield staff members enjoyed the friendly and informal afternoon of golf, organized by chairperson Scott Brosius ’01.

The Wildcat Open, Linfield’s top athletic-related fund-raising event, cultivates needed dollars to supplement non-budgeted athletic department expenses.

A sudden-death playoff decided the outcome of the gross championship. The group of Steve Reimann, Jim Reimann, Matt Tindle, Kris Stubberfield, and Pete Tjaarda edged the quintet of Corey Copeland, Bob Olson, Spencer Endicott, Matt Tindle, Kris Stubberfield, and Pete Tjaarda on a scorecard playoff beginning at Hole No. 5.

The lowest net score went to perennial contenders Alan Hubka, Ryan Hubka, Jamie Harrell, Ryan Smith, and Aric Buck, who scored 47.2 to easily outdistance the 49.4 recorded by the team of Wayne Scott, Bill Perry, Scott Beck, Michael Vissors, and Rich Cook. Many volunteers helped stage the event. Of special importance to the tournament’s financial success were John Davidson, who cultivated major sponsorships, and Steve Davis ’72, who sold tee sponsorships.

FOLLOW THE WILDCATS ON THE RADIO, WEB OR PHONE

There are several easy options available to Linfield fans who want to follow the Wildcats from near and far. Football games are broadcast locally, as well as on the internet, and simulcast on the telephone. Darrell Aune and Dave Hansen return to the broadcast booth with more than 60 years combined experience calling college football games on the radio.

In the McMinnville area, fans can hear every football game on radio station KLYC (1260 AM). Broadcasts begin 15 minutes before the start of each contest. In addition, men’s basketball will also be broadcast on KLYC. Women’s games will be covered via internet and telephone options.

For the fourth straight year, Linfield football and basketball games will be available on the internet. Go to the Linfield Athletics web site (www.linfield.edu/sports) and click on “Listen Live.”

Linfield’s partnership with TEAMLINE makes it possible for fans without internet access to hear live Wildcats sports broadcasts. Dial 1-800-846-4700 and enter 9712 as your team code.
The likelihood of a Linfield baseball game being postponed by wet weather is now much more remote.

Excavation began June 16 at Roy Helser Field on a privately funded $300,000 project to replace the natural grass infield with FieldTurf, an all-weather surface already in use on the football field.

With the college baseball season starting each spring in mid-February, poor field conditions due to steady Northwest rains have long been a concern. The resurfacing of the infield should help ease those concerns and prevent – but not entirely eliminate – the need to reschedule games because of rain.

Four-foot tall purple letters with white trim now spell out the word “WILDCATS” just behind home plate. The pitching mound remains natural dirt and the outfield retains its natural grass.

The Linfield baseball program, with enough players to fully stock both varsity and junior varsity squads, benefits by being able to practice and play on Helser Field at any time.

“It’s exciting for the program,” said Scott Brosius, who officially took over as head baseball coach in July. “No. 1, it increases the playability of the field when we have to deal with the weather. Second, it allows us to seriously look at the possibility of postseason bids. And we will be able to host a variety of baseball camps, American Legion tournaments and other events outside of the college.”

Maintenance costs are expected to drop because of the new surface. No longer will the infield need to be mowed, watered, or fertilized.

In addition to the infield, both bullpen areas will feature a FieldTurf surface.

Other enhancements have included replacing the backstop net and padding, repainting the pressbox inside and out, and applying fresh purple and red paint to all of the seatbacks.

“This really just adds to the already outstanding facilities at Linfield,” said Brosius. “When a prospect comes to campus to look around, they’ll see one of the nicest college baseball fields in the Northwest.”

Linfield’s Helser Field has been in use since 1971. The field was formally dedicated in 1973 in recognition of former athletic director, baseball and basketball coach Roy Helser. Helser’s 1966 baseball team won the NAIA championship, the college’s first national title in any sport.

Already considered a jewel among Northwest small colleges, Helser Field received its most dramatic makeover in 1990 when Jim Wright Stadium was constructed to replace portable aluminum bleachers and a chainlink backstop. The stadium, a crescent-shaped brick and concrete grandstand, has 860 aluminum-backed seats, along with a fully enclosed press box, public address system, dressing room, coach’s office and covered storage areas.

A complete renovation of the batting cages, expected to be dedicated in honor of recently retired coach Scott Carnahan, is planned for mid-October following completion of the fall practice schedule.

Also on the list of summer facilities projects was the installation of a drainage-tile system in the outfield of the softball diamond. Without drainage tile, the outfield would fill with standing water, rendering the field unplayable.

Over at the tennis courts, workers installed vinyl slats in the chain link fencing that separates each court, eliminating distractions from other players.

ANNUAL WALK OF HONOR IS OCTOBER 20

A not-so-well-kept secret about the sustained success of the Linfield football program is the notion that today’s players are representing hundreds of former players whenever they step on the field.

Since 1999, dozens of former Linfield football players have taken part in the Walk of Honor at the annual Homecoming game. Football alumni form a gauntlet of enthusiastic support, welcoming the team to the field at the start of the game. This year, the Walk of Honor takes place Saturday, Oct. 20, when Linfield hosts Pacific Lutheran at 1:30 p.m.

Football alumni are asked to gather on the north side of the stadium no later than 1 o’clock. Introductions begin at 1:10.

Three players have started games at the end position, but none has started more than four to be considered a full-fledged returning starter. Still, the writing is on the wall for the Wildcats to be very good at this position. Taylor Summers, who started the last four contests of 2006 and finished the year with a team-best 6?sacks, is a strong candidate to start at one end. Also returning with game experience are Chad Foglesong and Jeff Denney. Smith can't wait to raise the curtain on his latest linebacking corps. Sophomore trio of Jaymin Jackson, Alex Tkuchuk, and Paul Partlow could be among the most talented groups Linfield has seen in a number of seasons.

The secondary could one of the finest in many seasons, with five players capable of earning all-star recognition. Among the five starters returning are 2006 first team NWC all-stars Keone Tawata and Brian Mehl as well as 2006 starters Andrew Bean, Andrew Woods and Rodd Booth. Linfield returns kicker Scott Birkhofer (21-23 PAT, 7-8 FG), who established himself as an all-conference caliber player last fall. Incumbent punter Stan Fisher (37.5 yards per attempt) is already among the NWC's best at his position. Travis Masters, who averaged 31.3 yards on 17 kickoff returns, will be a dangerous weapon on special teams again. Josh Vierra will most likely return punts after averaging 6.7 yards per attempt.

VOLLEYBALL

The possibility that defending Northwest Conference champion Linfield could again finish atop the standings is worth considering. With four returning starters and a proven libero among nine returning lettermen, winning back-to-back titles for the first time in program history seems within the 'Cats' grasp.

Coming off a 22-3 season in 2006 - arguably the finest year in history – Linfield looks poised to achieve more milestones in the months ahead.

"Our goal is to defend our championship and advance further in the playoffs," said veteran coach Shane Kimura. "We have the desire to get it done, and we have some capable people who just haven't had the opportunity to prove themselves."

Though the Wildcats graduated All-Americans Lauren Kreiger and Chelsey Gellatly, plenty of skill and experience remains. Add to the mix some promising talent and the 'Cats could indeed contend for the conference, regional and national championships.

The biggest question mark is at setter, where Gellatly was a two-time all-NWC performer. Gellatly's understudy, sophomore Stephanie Purser, has the inside track on the starting position, but junior Meghan Flink and sophomore Liz Waddell are also in contention.

The other hole that must be filled is at middle blocker. With Kreiger gone, senior Molly Taylor and sophomore Emily Vuylasteke. Long-legged freshmen Janelle Miller (5-11) and Melissa Loney (6-0) may also provide help on the front line.

Linfield's real strength is on the outside corners, where high-flying senior Katelyn Baker is expected to have a banner season. Senior Lisa Brocard and junior Kelsey French give the Wildcats additional firepower at the net.

The back row looks solid. If she is not setting, Flink is expected to see playing time as a defensive specialist but could be pushed by junior Rachel Rahn, a transfer from Lower Columbia College. Hannah Veley, an honorable mention all-NWC selection at libero last season, returns to the same role this fall.

CROSS COUNTRY

Building on its recent success, the Linfield cross country program is gearing for a return to prominence. Fourteen women and nine men are expected to compete this fall for long-time coach Garry Killgore, who begins his 19th year. The women's squad returns a stable of quality runners, but must cope with the loss of all-region and NCAA national-meet competitor Joanna Murphy to graduation.

The Linfield women placed a disappointing seventh in the Northwest Conference in 2006, but Killgore thinks a top-three finish is within reach.

"I'm looking forward to the season," said Killgore. "We were very young last year, but I think we're in much better shape."

Two second-year runners are expected to lead the way in 2007. Frances Corcorran and Marci Klimek are each coming off impressive distance running seasons on the track last spring and look to build on those experiences.

Also returning with college cross country experience is sophomore Charlotte Trowbridge and junior Jasmine Klauder. Trowbridge appears healthy after an injury riddled freshman season, and Klauder returns to the squad after taking a year off.

Freshman Eriki Snawder is the top freshman prospect. The men's numbers are down slightly, but Killgore doesn't appear to be concerned. "I will always take quality over quantity. I'll take a strong competitor any day," he said. "This group has a realistic chance to be in the top three at conference. On a really good day, they could do some real damage."

Seven of the nine men's athletes have at least one season of college experience. Senior Harrison Wilson, runner-up in the Northwest Conference last fall, paces the Wildcats. Wilson was seventh at last season's West Region championships and gained valuable race experience at the NCAA Division III championships.

Veterans Justin Brandt, Shawn Pollard and Shawn Fisher give Killgore a solid group behind Wilson. Chris Mclsaac, whom Killgore calls perhaps "the biggest sleeper in the NWC," stands poised for a breakthrough season. Sophomores Tyler Davis and Jesse Davis (no relation) may also contribute. To be successful, the Wildcats must learn to "pack" their collective finishes tighter in scoring races.

MEN’S SOCCER

New coach Ian Lefebvre’s goal for the men’s soccer program is simple: Take the Wildcats back to the NCAA Division III tournament.

How long it might take to reach the playoffs is another question altogether. The ‘Cats last earned a postseason invitation in 2003.

Lefebvre (pronounced La-FAY-vor) believes the team he inherits has the talent and ability to be a top-three finisher in the rugged Northwest Conference. Linfield, 10-6-2 overall and 7-5-2 in the NWC in 2006, finished fourth in the standings, its lowest position since 1998.

There’s a lot to like about a roster than lists seven returning starters among 14 lettermen, said Lefebvre, who worked out the returning players during a limited number of spring practices.

The defensive half of the field is where Lefebvre expects his squad to be the strongest, at least during the early season. The style of play will evolve into more of a possession-style attack, rather than the direct-attacking style used in seasons past.

A high-pressure defense, led by veterans Spencer Hunter, Joe Murray, Chris Nicoletti and Tim Solimano, should create scoring chances at the other end of the field.

The midfield is considered another strength. Veterans Travis Issacs, Derek Ponce, Andy Sharp and Nick Powers are all capable one-on-one players who can control the pace of the game, when necessary.

At forward, lettermen Jacob Burger, Brice Lang and Spencer Winter are joined by promising freshmen Zach Hubbard and Michael Camacho.

Perhaps the greatest area of concern is at goalkeeper, where three candidates have started a combined total of two matches. Junior Mike Belzberg faces strong competition from sophomore Joe Locascio and newcomer Jon Thompson.

WOMEN’S SOCCER

Cracking the upper crust of the Northwest Conference is no easy task, but second-year coach Melanie Langley and her Linfield Wildcats are up for the task.

Placing among the top four in the nationally regarded league would be a quantum leap from the Wildcats’ sixth-place finish last year, when they went 4-10-2 in the NWC.

But Langley believes the rapid improvement is possible, if she can coax steady performances out of her players each and every match.

“Our No. 1 goal for this season is consistency from game to game,” said Langley. “Last year, we would play great against good teams for 20 minutes, then make a mistake or two and lose.”

Ten letterwinners return to the lineup, including seven who started at least half the games in 2006.

A new goalkeeper must be broken in. Freshman Kelsey Hasselblad, the lone player vying for the position, brings athletic skill and a strong presence between the pipes.

Hoping to take some of the pressure off the rookie is a salty defense that features five returning lettermen and a pair solid transfers. Joining veterans Martha Inouye, Kristine Siler, Kendra Newell and Kelly McLeod are Rennika Doty, a transfer from Chico State, and Emma Triplett, who comes to Linfield from Clark College.

The midfield is anchored by speedsters Kate Franklin and Kim Skelly. Amber Calcagno, the team’s inspirational catalyst, will also see action alongside letterwinners Stephanie Caster and Nellie Reuland. Up front, hard-working forwards Kelli Gillespie and Rachel Miles return. The two forwards combined for 12 goals last year.

MEN’S GOLF

There’s good news for the Linfield golf team. Coach Greg Copeland’s Wildcats return seven experienced players for the 2007-08 season.

The bad news: The rest of the Northwest Conference appears similarly loaded, including defending champion Whitworth, which edged Linfield at the season-ending tournament to capture the team trophy.

“We need to play consistent golf,” said Copeland, starting his seventh season. “It all comes down to putting.”

Copeland has a bevy of experience to call upon, starting with seniors Kyle Henderson, Jeff Nigro and junior Andrew Fitch. Sophomore Tyler Nelson made a big splash during his first season in the program and his joined by fellow sophomores Joel Rychar and Burt Bonk. Less experienced, but vying for playing time are senior Drew Fogg, and lettermen Matt Hanson and Nick Pagenkopf. Another junior lettermen, Kevin Duerr, is expected to rejoin the team in the spring after spending the fall semester studying abroad.

The fall season starts Sept. 22 with the first of five NWC Southern Division five-way events. The Fall Classic, the final match of the fall season, is Oct. 21-22, at Spokane Country Club. Action resumes in March with the NWC championships tournament slated for late April.

WOMEN’S GOLF

The Wildcats are coming off a runner-up finish last spring and hope to be able to put the pieces together that will bring the program its first league crown since 2003.

Two experienced players return for second-year coach Karly Cramer. Senior Shawnie Dakan is back for her fourth season in the program. Sophomore Brittany Johnson also returns after a solid rookie season.

Dakan has taken on a primary leadership role following the graduation of All-American Leslie Wheeler.

Among the newcomers is promising freshmen Katie Kilborn of Rancho Murieta, Calif., and Brynn Hurdus from Gig Harbor, Wash. Several other players are expected to fill out the roster in time for the first match.

Cramer called her group “highly motivated” and said the Wildcats will take “baby steps” on their way to contending for the NWC championship.

“All the girls worked hard during the offseason,” note Cramer. “We hope to be in the top three (in the NWC).”
WE APPRECIATE OUR TOPCAT CLUB CONTRIBUTORS!

The TopCat Club exists as a support organization to Linfield College’s 19 NCAA Division III varsity sports teams and the more than 450 students who participate in athletics each year. Support from the TopCat Club has been essential in maintaining and expanding each of these programs. The mission of the TopCat Club is to provide students with an outstanding athletic and academic experience and to strengthen the overall competitiveness of the Linfield athletics program.

At Linfield, we continually strive to improve facilities and programs so that our teams may compete at the highest level. Roughly 75 percent of the athletic department’s annual operating budget comes from the college’s general fund. The balance is generated through a wide variety of external sources, including annual giving to the Linfield TopCat Club.

The individuals and organizations listed on these pages made a tangible difference in our continuing quest for excellence in every arena of competition. Donations benefit all 19 varsity sports programs. Resources provided by the TopCat Club have been a major factor in Linfield receiving the prestigious McFroy-Lewis Trophy three times in the last five years as the Northwest Conference’s top varsity athletic program.

Special needs vary from year to year, but the primary areas supported by TopCat Club include enhancement of facilities, equipment and uniforms, salaries for part-time assistant coaches, travel expenses for teams, as well as contingency funds for any unanticipated needs. This year, the TopCat Club is seeking to increase its membership by 25 percent with a goal of generating $100,000 in support of our student-athletes. These ambitions are vital to the growth of our programs.

Funded by donations to the TopCat Club fund, and through the help of our physical plant services and others, we have transformed an old restroom in Memorial Stadium into a new laundry room. This addition will be very helpful for all of our outdoor athletic teams. We have also updated our video cameras and DVD equipment for all of our programs. The TopCat Club fund also allowed us to purchase a new utility vehicle for use by our athletic department and athletic training staff.

We are expecting delivery and installation of a new sound system for the football and track facility. It will be mounted on top of the scoreboard at the south end of the facility. After many, many years, our old sound system became unrepairable. Thus, we have purchased a new system we hope will be a huge improvement.

Through a very generous pledge by Scott Brosius and friends, we are currently installing synthetic FieldTurf on the infield portion of the baseball field. The backstop net and padding are also being replaced and a fresh painting has been done throughout the facility.

Although the college funds operational costs for athletics through the general budget process, many projects and other special equipment needs are made possible through the generous giving of those who donate to Athletics through the TopCat Club fund. We rely heavily on the fund to keep moving forward and hope that you will consider joining if you have not already done so. Our goal is to reach $100,000 each year to assure our athletic teams have what is needed to remain successful.

Thank you for all you do for us and for your consideration on helping us reach our TopCat goal. If you are interested, please fill out the form below and return it to us.

I hope that all of you can make it back to campus to watch at least one athletic event this year. We anticipate having another great year.

Go ‘Cats!

Scott Carnahan ’73
Director of Athletics
